THOMAS WUNSCH RECENT WORKS

Thomas Wunsch started working in the field of photography at age 17, when he moved to the USA and became a member of the Kodak Young Photographers League.

When he opened a photo studio in Hamburg he devoted himself to fashion, still life and portrait photography. He took pictures of Barbra Streisand, Sir George Solti, Frank Zappa, Yoko Ono, Dalai Lama, Jeff Koons, Debra Winger, Adrien Brody, Anton Corbijn, Annie Leibovitz, Nastassja Kinski, Sting, Harvey Keitel, Fanny Ardant, Daniel Barenboim and many other international celebrities. He also had his first two solo exhibitions in Hamburg at Galerie Palme.

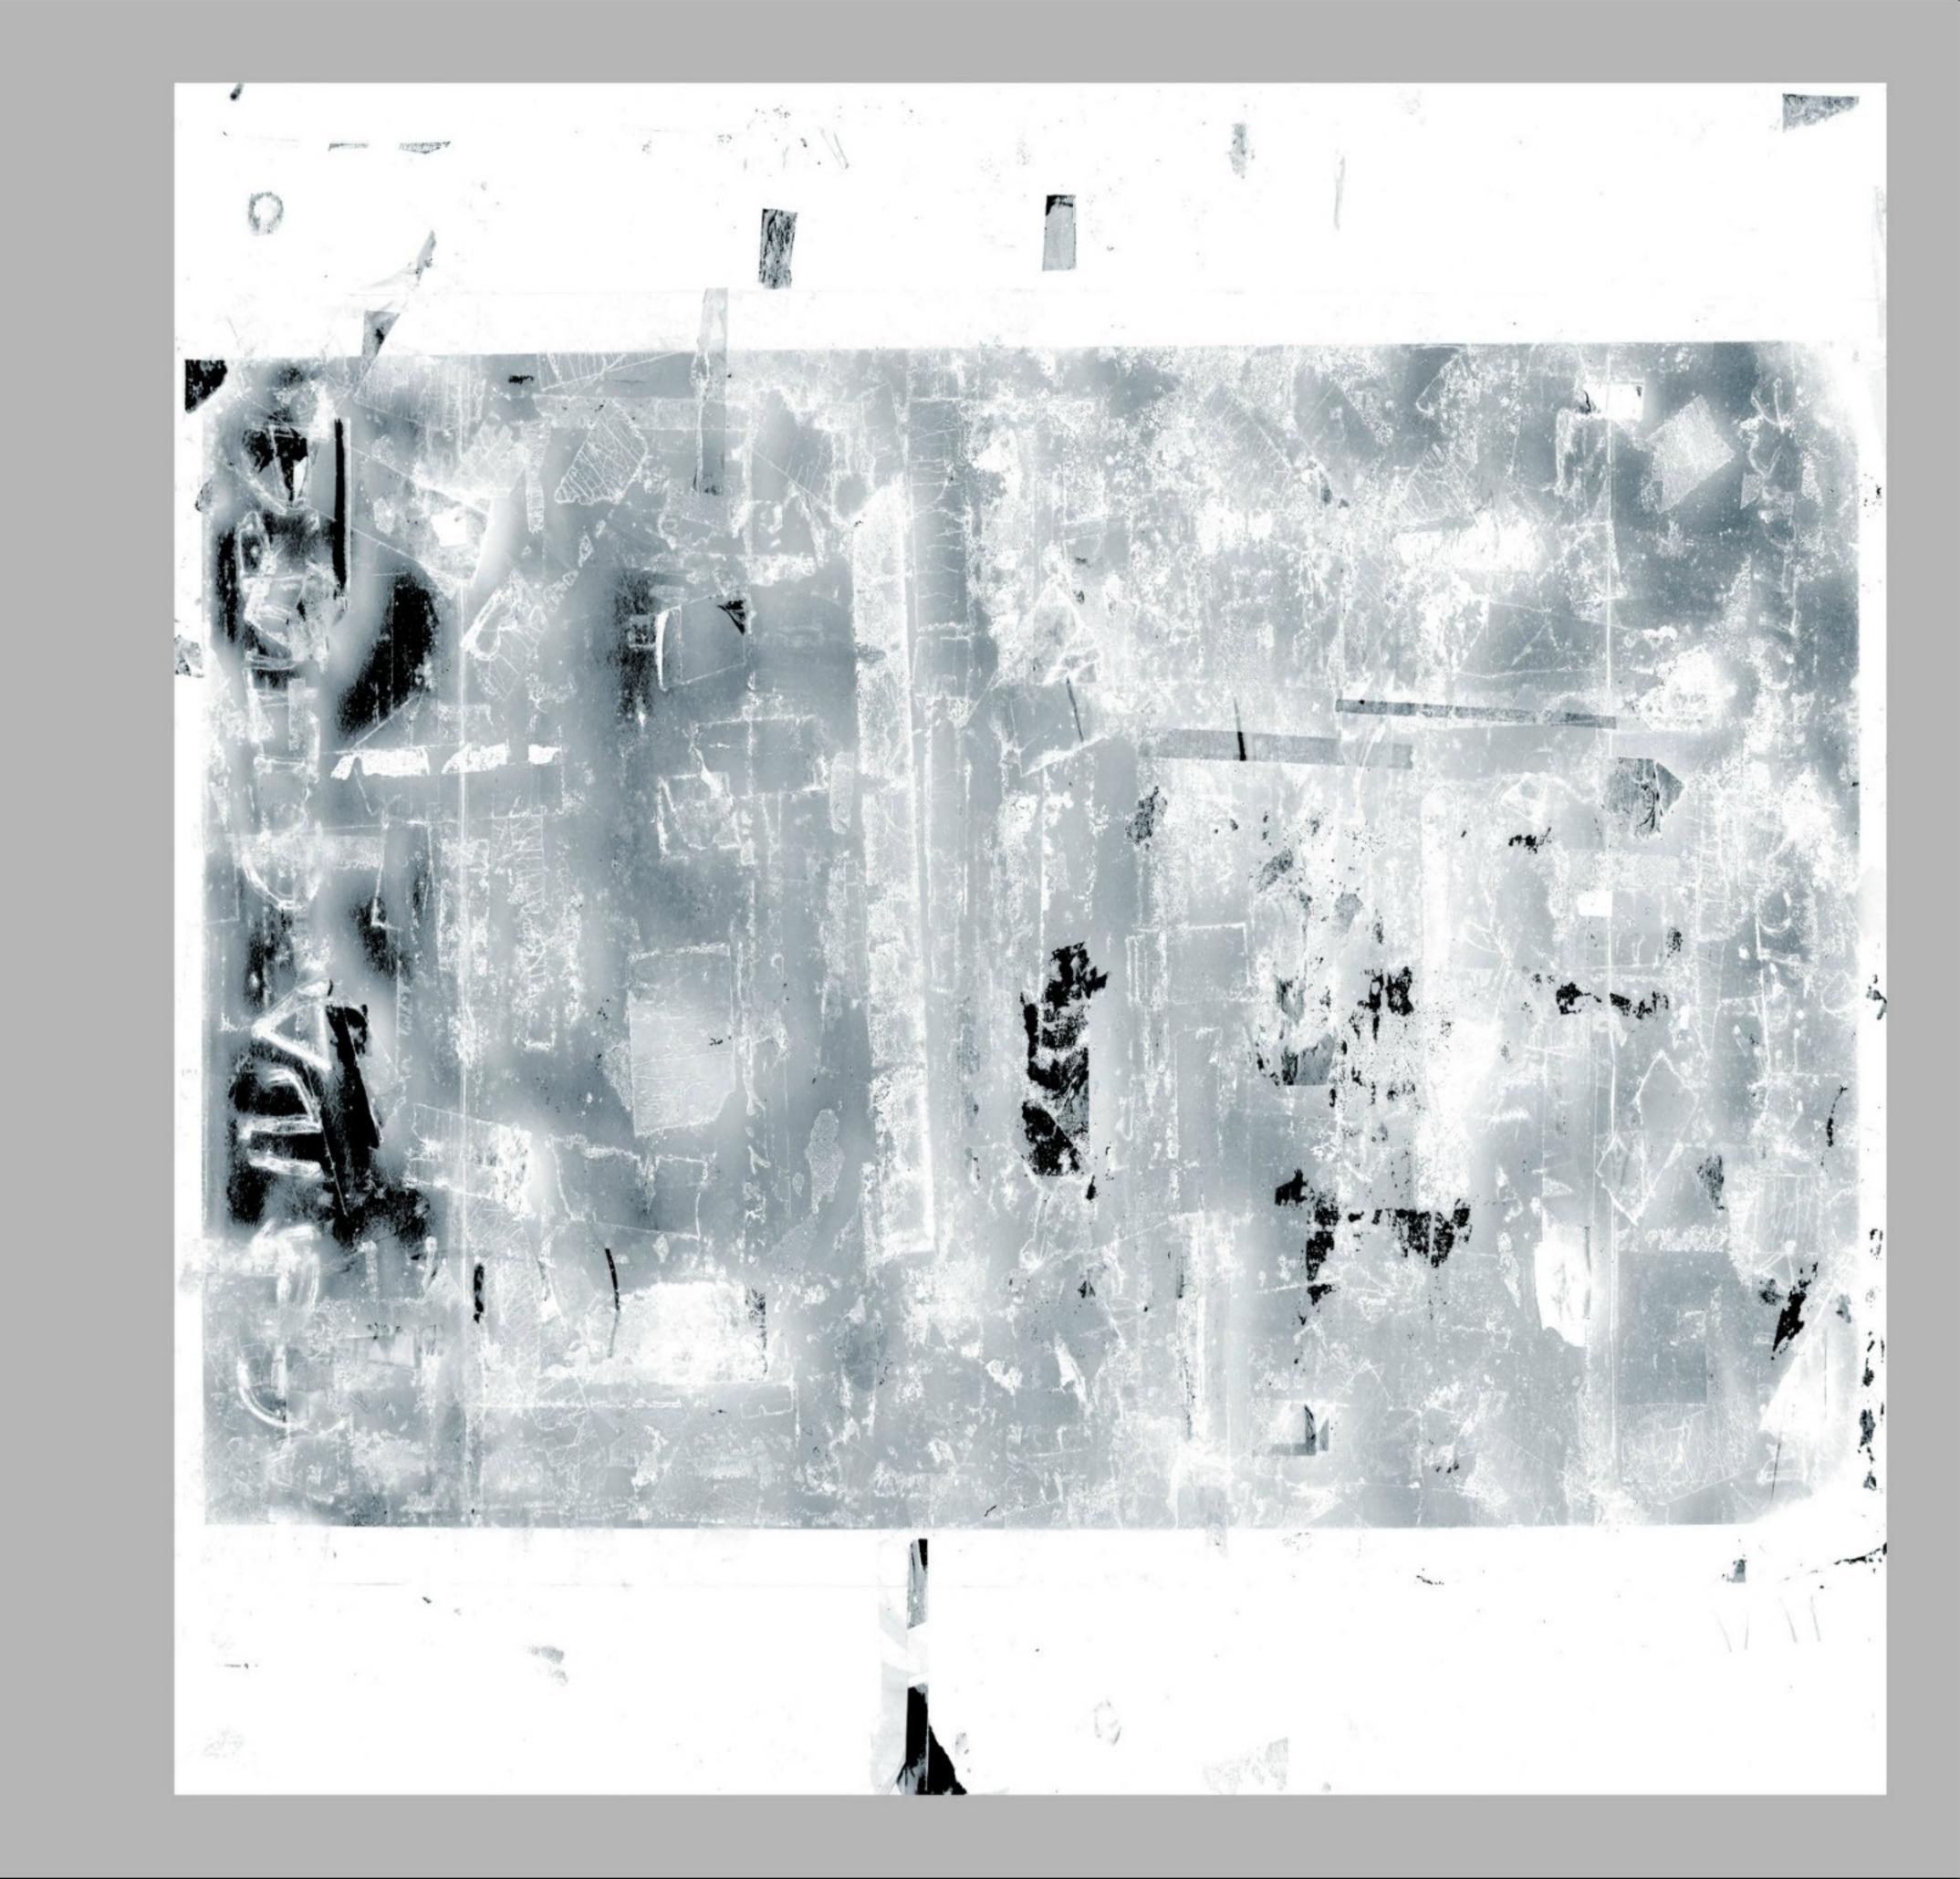

After he moved to the USA again, Thomas Wunsch worked as a still photographer at a movie production company for many years.

Thomas Wunsch started taking abstract photographs in the year 2000. In his images the viewer is at the center because the absence of any indication of what was photographed leaves a lot of room for interpretation. And as different as people are, so are their interpretations. Each viewer sees something different in his photographs. This is a part of their appeal and it is also an important element of his photographic concept. With his photographs Thomas Wunsch wants to create a visual experience that actively involves the viewer's senses, emotions and intellect.

These photographs were exhibited at the Huantie Times Art Museum in Beijing, the Museum of Contemporary Art in Seoul, the Overbeck Museum in Bremen, the Okgwa Museum in Gokseong, the Huaxia Art Museum in Zhengzhou, the Museum im Wehener Schloss and numerous galleries throughout the world. They were also published by the renowned German record company ECM as LP and CD covers.

More than 30 books featuring his photographs have been published, including his most recent ones "Enemies of Reason", "The Impertinence of Beauty" and "Wages of Sin". Thomas Wunsch is a member of the Museum of Modern Art (MoMA), New York, a founding member of 360 Minutes of Art, a member of the World Photography Organisation, a member of the American Photography Association, a member of the Aperture Foundation and a member of the International Center of Photography, New York.
